

FRANCE TO STAY IN RUHR UNTIL GERMANY PAYS: REJECTS BRITISH PROPOSALS

Government To Act To Avert Hard Coal Strike

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., August 22.—Miners' Union officials and anthracite coal operators, who yesterday broke off wage negotiations for the industry, were still in the city today awaiting whatever communication might come to them from the United States Coal Commission, or other agencies of the Federal Government.

On September 1 the present contract fixing the wages of employment for all the unionized mine workers in the hard coal region expires. It is expected that the union will insist on the terms of a contract to continue the employment relations after that date have failed even with the Coal Commission's intervention.

Mr. Lewis reiterated to-day the assurance that the union would "administer to the anthracite operators the thrashing of their owners" if the operators had nothing to offer to their statement that reported offers in their part to submit every point in dispute to arbitration had been fruitless.

What Government agencies or President Coolidge had in mind none of them pretended to know or surmise.

As the matter stands, operators and miners' Union officials have come to complete disagreement on the demands which the mine workers spokesmen have presented. One of these is for union recognition and the collection of union dues by the check off. The second is for an increase of $2 per day for all the men employed in mine workings for the day and for a 20 per cent increase in the piece rates per ton for mining coal.

Other demands of the union have never been formally considered in joint sessions.

It is conceded to-day that falling entrance of some new factor, Government or otherwise, into the mines would be tied up September 1.

Night Flying Test A Success

CHICAGO, August 22.—Five mail planes were in the air to-day, the second day of the five-day test of transcontinental aerial mail, with successful night-flying record between Chicago and Cheyenne, and indications that mail which left Cheyenne, Wyo., at 8:35 p. m., mountain time, last night, would reach New York before nightfall.

Due to storms and fogs in Wyoming, the mail, which left San Francisco at 5:59 a. m., Pacific time, yesterday was delayed last night in reaching Cheyenne, and shortly before noon, Central standard time, today, was en route to Omaha on the eastward flight. Except for the interference of the elements which held Pilot H. A. Collins at Laramie, Wyo., over night, in spite of three starts, the San Francisco mail in all probability would have reached New York within the twenty-eight-hour schedule.

Night Flying Proves Successful

CHICAGO, August 22.—The night-flying test of the Postal Service in a twenty-eight-hour service from coast to coast proved a success except for unique weather conditions at Laramie, Wyo., which held one airplane for a day.

Daylight to-day found the West-bound relay moving westward almost on schedule time, with perfect relays at each point. The east-bound mail skipped a gap of 5 miles between Laramie and Cheyenne, Wyo., last night, when heavy clouds made advance impossible. Three times the pilot tried to skirt the low-hanging fog, and each time was forced to turn back because he could not see his direction.

Pilot H. G. Bonstra left Cheyenne at 5 o'clock mountain time, west-bound 40 minutes behind schedule. Pilot Jack Knight arrived at 2:50 a. m. mountain time, one hour and 20 minutes ahead of schedule, but due to bad weather the relay pilot awaited dawn.

Pilot H. T. Lewis left Omaha east-bound early to-day over two hours late, reaching Iowa City, Iowa, at 10:22 a. m., central time. Pilot Collins, who failed to find his way out of Laramie because of the fog, resumed his eastward flight at daybreak, but the Cheyenne relay, after waiting two hours for his cargo, took off with Cheyenne mail.

Thermometers Show Big Drop; To Warm Up

COLUMBUS, OHIO, August 22.—Ohio thermometers registered an almost perpendicular slide of 16 to 24 degrees last night giving the state its first taste of pre-fall cool weather.

Not only Ohio, but practically all the Upper Mississippi Valley experienced the same drop in temperature caused by formation of a low-pressure area over that section followed by a high-pressure area and consequent winds from the Northwest.

The low-pressure area is traveling eastward and rain was falling this morning in West Virginia and Tennessee. A heavy frost was reported this morning in Northeastern Minnesota.

Toledo experienced the greatest fall in temperature, thermometers there registering a descent of 24 degrees. In Columbus the fall was 16 degrees. Over most of Indiana the fall in temperature was 22 degrees.

The forecast for tonight was continued cool, but rising temperature is promised for to-morrow, with clear weather.

Frost In Some States

The chill storm has been followed by sharply cooler weather over the Northern and Middle States east of the Rocky Mountains, and has been attended by considerable rain. Storm warnings were continued to-day at and north of Atlantic City.

Paris Says Germans Can And Must Pay

PARIS, August 22 (By the Associated Press).—The French Government's reply to the recent British reparations note asserts that France refuses to withdraw from the Ruhr except as she is paid and that she rejects a plan for an international re-estimate of Germany's capacity to pay.

The reply made public at the Foreign Office to-day contends that the French occupation in the Ruhr is absolutely legal. It offers to consider the easiest method of exacting payment from Germany when resistance has ceased and expresses a willingness to continue the recent discussions with Great Britain.

Thus Germany can obtain evacuation of the Ruhr only by reparations; she can assure attenuation of the rigors of the occupation by ceasing passive resistance and she can win no reduction in the amount she owes France unless the allied creditors of France see fit to give France credit for equal amounts on her war debts. These are the conclusions of Premier Poincaré's reply to Marquess Curzon's reparations note of recent date. The French Government also expresses its belief that the allies can agree on methods of bringing about the execution of the treaty by continuing courteous negotiations.

British Proposals Rejected

The British proposals for a re-estimate of Germany's capacity for payment, and Lord Curzon's suggestion that the question of the legality of the occupation of the Ruhr be referred to the League, are rejected, and the French position is reaffirmed as remaining unchanged.

France holds that a settlement of the question of reparations war debts should await upon final payment by Germany of 80,000,000,000 gold marks in reparations comprised in the A. and B. bonds.

Official opinion of the reply, as set forth in the summary of the Foreign Office today at the Foreign Office, is that the note contains the elements of a practical solution of the reparations problem, but a careful reading of the note shows that, in the opinion of M. Poincaré, the only practical solution is for Great Britain to accept the French thesis in every detail.

An official summary issued at the Foreign Office prior to the complete text points out that Premier Poincaré stresses the priority of reparations over other war costs as represented by the interallied debts.

Referring to the British demand for the payment of fourteen and one fifth billion gold marks, the summary continues:

84 Perished On Jap Sub

TOKIO, August 22 (By the Associated Press).—Divers were to-day unable to locate the Japanese submarine No. 70, which sank yesterday off Awaji Island, with 84 members of the crew and workers on the Kawasumi dock yards at Kobe.

The vessel, which was returning to Kobe from her first trial trip, was one of the latest types. Her construction was only recently completed.

According to Submarine Engineer Yamaguchi, who with the Captain, chief officer, and three others, was saved, the vessel had just come to the surface when she listed heavily and started to sink. The Captain had all the openings closed, but the submarine filled before the crew could carry out the order. She sank in 35 fathoms of water.

Those who were saved owe their lives to the fact that they were hurried through the openings of the submarine by the rushing water. Awaji is an island off Japan in the straight between Hongkong and Shinkok. It is 20 miles long.

To Discuss "Gas" Probe

ST. PAUL, MINN., August 22.—"Ways and means for a sweeping nationwide investigation into the question of gasoline prices will be discussed by the National Association of Attorneys General at its convention in Minneapolis next week, it was announced here today.

An unusual celebration was held today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Ricker, and Mrs. Chloe McGhee of 732 Third street, when their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Canter, celebrated their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary. The celebration was a very quiet affair, owing to a recent bereavement in the family, and only the close relatives of the aged couple were present to congratulate them and extend happy felicitations on this unusual occasion. Mr. Canter is enjoying splendid health, but his good wife has been an invalid for the past few years, her eyesight having failed her some time ago.

Mr. George Canter and Miss Elizabeth Gilliland, lived neighbors on adjoining farms at Madoc's Corner, Jackson county, where they were both born and reared. Mr. Canter served during the Civil War in Company A, First Ohio Heavy Artillery. # FIND BODY OF MISSING CLARENCE WRIGHT IN THE OHIO RIVER

Had Fallen Off Ferryboat While On Way Home From Kentucky, Where He Spent The Day With A Cousin

Mystery surrounding the finding of the body of Clarence Wright, former well known motorman, in the Ohio river near the upper ferry landing at 4:03 Tuesday afternoon, was solved Wednesday when Frank Marsh, who is employed in the Irving Drew plant, expressed the belief that Wright fell off the boat and was drowned Sunday night at 7:30 just when the boat was making a landing on the Ohio side of the river.

Mr. Wright had spent the day at Mr. Marsh's home at Taylor, Ky., just east of Fullerton, and the two men were returning to Portsmouth Sunday evening when Wright met his tragic fate.

Wright was leaning against the railing in the rear of the cabin of the boat when it last saw him and there is no doubt in my mind that when the boat struck the landing at the foot of Union street, Wright fell through a small opening on the railing and was drowned," Marsh told a "Times" man Wednesday morning.

Muddy All Day
"Clarence, who was my first cousin, came to my home early Sunday morning. He was muddy all day. He said he had no earning capacity, had been afflicted with rheumatism and heart trouble and to top the column, his son, George, was to be taken to Cincinnati for treatment, the result of being ill with rheumatism. I tried to cheer up Clarence, but he remained despondent throughout the day."

Mr. Marsh said it was the first time he had seen Wright for a long time and was surprised when he entered his home. "I had heard of 1019 Mill street and spent the week-end with my wife and family at Taylor, Ky. When Wright started home Sunday night I decided to keep a close watch on him. The first time I missed him I saw him standing in the engine room of the ferry boat watching the machinery. When the boat neared the landing he was leaning against the railing back of the cabin. After the boat landed I thought Clarence got off first. When I reached the top of the hill I saw a man walking north on Union street and I assumed it was Clarence and paid no more attention to him. Little dreaming that he had fallen off the ferry boat and drowned un-noticed. I did not learn that he had drowned until late last night, several hours after his dead body had been recovered and identified.

Chief and Coroner Called.
Coroner Virgil Fowler and Chief Diefel were soon on the scene after Wright's body had been found and well investigate all phases of the fatality. Coroner Fowler said today that he believed that Wright's death was accidental, but he would not render his verdict until every phase of his death could be thoroughly investigated. Relatives did not report Wright missing, as of late, they stated Wednesday, he was in the habit of being away from his home two or three days at a time and attached no significance to the fact that he failed to return Sunday, they even knowing that he had suddenly decided to visit his cousin, Mr. Marsh.

Floating On Surface.
Wright's body was discovered floating on the surface of the Ohio by Clarence Engelbrecht, Will Loxler, of Fullerton, and John Larcher, of 1125 Fifteenth street. Larcher, who during the World War was an ordnance mechanic on the U. S. Mississippi, hauled the floating body to the shore in his rowboat.

Search of the dead man's clothes revealed a empty bill-fold, spectacle case with pair of glasses, an empty silver cigarette case, gold-lined, and two cents in money. No identification marks were found on any of the effects, and the identity of the man was still unknown when the Diefel ambulance arrived to carry the body away.

It was noted that the dead man's fists were clenched, a posture foreign to the accustomed appearance of drowned persons. This led the police to believe that violence might have played a part in the man's death, a supposition which was disproved, however, when a more thorough examination was made at the morgue and no marks of violence were found on the body.

Joe King, operator of a restaurant on Market street, identified the body as that of Mr. Wright, when he viewed it at the undertaking establishment. The dead man's father-in-law, George Freshell, was then summoned and he verified the identification.

A plain gold band ring on the dead man's hand assisted identification. Inside it bore the initials "M. L." and the inscription "June 20, 1916," the date of his marriage to Miss Lillie May Semones, who died five years ago.

Wright is said to have been deeply affected by the death of his wife, and since that time has been despondent. For the past several months he had also been complaining of pains around the heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Freshell were endeavoring Wednesday to notify Wright's family of his death. His father, Joseph Wright, is believed to be living at Hillsboro. A brother, George Wright, is somewhere out West, while a sister, Mrs. Ethel Collins, lives at West Union.

The oldest of two sons, Freshell Wright, has not been home since last Christmas, and when last heard from was in California, according to other members of the family. Another son, George, is staying with relatives in Cincinnati. Wright's only daughter is Mrs. Franklin Page, 1304 O'Neare street.

Wright, aged 51, was born in Adams county, near Peebles. He came to Portsmouth while still a young man, and worked for the street railway company. Until several years ago he was employed as a nickel plater in the Ohio Store Co.'s plant here, since which time he has not been actively engaged.

Mr. Wright was especially well known in the West End as at various times he had been employed in George Freshell's restaurant.

Oak Hill Youth Hurt In Auto Crash

(Special to The Times.)
OAK HILL, August 22.—It was Neal was seriously injured and the machine which he was driving was entirely demolished, as the result of an accident. The incident occurred when Neal was driving north on Railroad street, when it is supposed his lights went out, and he ran into a machine owned by Homer Rankins of Black Fork, which was standing in front of the home of Mrs. Anthony Smith.

The force of the collision was so great as to throw the Neal machine across the road and into the ditch on the other side. The Rankin car was also badly damaged. Neal sustained a broken collar bone, severe injuries to his side, besides numerous cuts and bruises. As soon as arrangements could be made he was rushed to Holzer hospital. He is now on the road to recovery and will probably be brought to his home in a few days. The injured lad is seventeen years old and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neal of Madison. ## Mexican agrarian questions will be handled by properly constituted tribunals. Mexico has in no sense compromised herself to obtain recognition and the United States on its part has become convinced of the sincerity and good faith of the Mexican people. It would be satisfactory to both countries. For one thing it was urged that Mexico sign a treaty giving pledges therein which would interpret the constitution. But all concerned came to the conclusion that a treaty could not amend the constitution of Mexico anyhow and that the acts complained of could just as well be acts of congress in Mexico as a part of the constitution and that the differences were not necessarily overcome by any treaty stipulation. Much more important than that was the settling up machinery to deal with disputes on an equitable basis and in line with the pronounced policies of the governments.

Although the American government has conducted its parleys with-out taking into its confidence the oil or agrarian interests involved, the impression prevails that when the details are made public they will see the merit of the new plan of procedure.

Most important of all the results achieved, however, is the intimacy established between the governments of Mexico City and Washington. One of the commissioners, Charles B. Warren, is said to have won the confidence of the Mexicans to the point of becoming, at several stages of the conversations, a friendly adviser.

The Mexicans are believed to have come to the conclusion that the United States did not wish to impose burdensome terms but simply wanted a reciprocal and equitable basis for resuming diplomatic relations.

When the United States formally resumes diplomatic relations all the other governments of the world are expected to follow suit. The action of the American government is always a precedent for European and Latin-American countries to follow. In fact the American formula is very likely to be adopted by other governments to handle their claims against Mexico. There is nothing in the proposed conventions which gives the United States any preferential position with respect to other nations nor anything discriminatory sought.

The next step undoubtedly will be the refinancing of Mexico. Reports received here indicate that Mexico is in a potentially sound condition,

New Teachers Named For Piketon School

PIKETON, O., August 22.—At a recent meeting of the Piketon Board of Education, it was found necessary to make some changes in the personnel of the teaching corps of the Piketon schools for the coming year. In view of the fact that T. S. Whipple, of McConnelsville, who was employed as Principal of the high school for the coming year, was unable to obtain his release from the Marietta Board of Education, with whom he had a contract, it was necessary to employ a principal to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Whipple's inability to accept the position. Mark McMillan, a graduate of Wilmington College, was employed to fill the vacancy. Mr. McMillan who was formerly superintendent of the Stockdale schools, comes well recommended and well equipped for his new duties.

Maurice Douthett who was employed as teacher of the seventh and eighth grades was also unable to obtain his release from a contract which he had entered into, before being employed by the Piketon board. It was necessary to employ another teacher for that place. Mr. Douthett's sister, Miss Lillian Douthett, was employed as teacher of the seventh and eighth grades. While Miss Douthett has had no experience as a teacher, she is a graduate of the Pike County Normal School and comes to us with a thorough knowledge of the theory of the teaching profession, and we feel sure that she will be successful. These two changes complete the personnel of the Piketon teaching corps for the coming year.

that fully fifty per cent more income is being collected today by the Oregon government than ever was collected by the Portfiro Diaz administration. Mexico is taking her resources in a way that she never has before and is in a position to win a loan on favorable terms.

Certainly the moral support of the United States government will not be withheld to any enterprise of the kind if the opinion of the Washington government is sought by either country. It is somewhat early to forecast just what the financial steps will be but the essential fact at the moment is that Mexico is on the way to rehabilitation and that instead of friction with the authorities below the Rio Grande, the United States begins an epoch of what appears likely to develop into unprecedented business expansion and prosperity. President Harding would have been happy at the results obtained. He was eager to see Mexico and the United States resume diplomatic relations so that the entire family of nations on the Western Hemisphere might again be reunited. It appears probable that R. B. Greager of Texas, who was selected by Mr. Harding to be ambassador to Mexico would be sent to Mexico City shortly.

France
"We do not suppose that England intends to claim the sums owing her by the allies before reparations are actually settled."
"It is, no doubt, England's interest that Germany shall recover. It certainly comes to her interest that France should be diminished."
The occupation of the Ruhr was made obligatory in Premier Poincaré's opinion by what he calls the deliberate debasement of Germany's finances with the avowed intention of escaping payment of reparations. He mentions the rapid recovery of Austria as proof that Germany could have put her finances in order had she wished to do so.

French Refuse to Compromise
In the text the Premier, replying to Marquis Curzon, frames his answers in a tone less sharp, but no less categorical, reaffirming the French resolution, "a hundred times repeated, not to renounce one centime of her reparations claim, which is regarded as sacred and which does not resemble any other claim."
The note asks: "Does the British Cabinet want to suppress Germany's debt entirely under the pretext that her capacity for payment has been provisionally annihilated?"
The note replies pointedly to Curzon's intimation that Great Britain may soon be obligated to ask France to pay her war debt.
He says:
"France has never repudiated her debts and never will, but she is convinced that no British Government will ever apply to an ally the pressure that the London Cabinet does not find it possible to-day to apply to the former enemies of France."

Graham, district highway engineer, with headquarters here. A resolution was under consideration recommending the drawing up by the state highway department of plans and specifications and estimates for the improvement of the following two stretches of the pike running north of Chillicothe:

1. The unimproved gap beginning where the brick pavement ends north of Franklin station to the McConnell farm where the macadam stretch towards Kingston begins.
2. From where the River Road branches off to Circleville for a stretch of about three miles.

Arrests Follow Raids In Greenup Co.

GREENUP, Ky., August 22.—Three raids staged in Greenup county within the last two days have resulted in the recovery of the still and whisky and 150 gallons of whisky, 700 gallons of mash, and the arrest of Freeman Hamilton, aged 18, and his brother, Charles Hamilton, aged 20.
The raids were staged by Sheriff Sumner B. Callahan, State Probation Officer J. M. Blittler of Catlettsburg and assistants. The first raid was made in the wilds about Schultz, 12 miles southwest of Greenup, and resulted in the recovery of the still and whisky and 150 gallons of mash. The moonshiners had seen the approach of the authorities and made good their escape.
The second raid was made on Jose Branch near Red Hot, Ky., which is about fifteen miles southeast of Greenup. Here the officers took into custody the two young men named above and 600 gallons of mash. The Hamilton brothers were confined in the Greenup jail pending their hearing on a charge of manufacturing whisky unlawfully.
The last raid was on Low Gap, eight miles west of Greenup and was entirely unsuccessful. The officers' hearing of the officers' approach by means of lookouts and "mountain dogs" escaped with all their whisky-making equipment. The officers found only a small quantity of mash on their arrival.

Daily Family Reunion Held At Piketon

PIKETON, O., August 22.—The fourth annual reunion of the Daily family was held Sunday, August 19, at the Piketon Fair Grounds. Members of the family began to arrive at the grounds early and preparations for the day's enjoyment began.
Nearly every section of the state was represented by members of the Daily family, except Clark county, the party expected to attend from that county, failed to arrive.
The gathering which was almost complete by 9 o'clock opened the day's activities by singing a collection of folk songs, requested by some of the elder members of the family. Following this a social and get-together period continuing until the noon hour, was greatly enjoyed by all present.
A long table was then spread in the Art Hall, all families contributing with baskets containing "everything good to eat." This proved a happy feature of the occasion, witty and pleasant conversation and good will prevailing throughout the dinner hour.
The committee appointed at last year's reunion for the purpose of furnishing the program for this occasion consisted of Misses Emma Fishburn of Piketon, Nellie Daily and Nettie Welty of Sargents. The program furnished through the efforts of this committee was evidence of the work and ability of its members. A song service was begun by the singing of "America" and "Come Thy Almighty King" by all. "Love's Old Sweet Song" was sung by Gladys Daily and William Daily of Sargents. "You and I Won't Forget" was most beautifully sung by Mrs. P. W. Sheeler and J. A. Boden of Columbus. Mrs. Sheeler then responded to a hearty encore by singing "Peggy O'Neil." Mrs. Paul Daily of Cleveland very graciously tendered her services at the piano throughout the song service, which was concluded by the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers" by all present.
An unusual and excellent feature of the program was the reading of an original poem, "Our Ancestors," composed by Miss Nettie Welty of Sargents and read by her sister Mrs. Ruth Beedley. President Floyd Daily then addressed the meeting. The minutes of the last reunion were then read by the Secretary, L. A. Boden of Columbus, followed by the election of the following officers for the coming year: President, Floyd Daily of London; Vice President, C. C. Daily of Piketon; Secretary, L. A. Boden of Columbus; Treasurer, Miss Nellie Daily of Sargents. President Floyd Daily followed with a heavy speech of acceptance and an outline of the reunion of next year. The same place of meeting was agreed upon unanimously and an urgent invitation solicited the presence and increased enthusiasm of all. An offering to defray the expenses was then made by the members and amid the strains of music and voices of good-fellowship, the reunion adjourned to be held again next year.
The following members were present: Mrs. Moses Daily, Nellie T. Daily, Jane Daily, Gladys Daily, Sarah Jane Daily, Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Daily and daughter, Mrs. Florence, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Daily and son Paul, C. C. Daily, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Daily, daughter, Myrtle, and son, Orville, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Daily and family, Daniel J. Daily and daughter, Florence, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. ## Good Trades of 1923 That Went Wrong

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Editor)
NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (United Press).—After having guessed good and wrong, several major league managers are prepared to argue that there are no brains, science or judgment in trading and it is just a question of luck in getting the good break on a swap.
The only consolation in discarding a worn-out king that fills a straight in another man's hand is that others have done it before, and the old baseball alibi covers the offense: "How can you beat it?"
The most outstanding example of a good trade that went wrong happened in the case of Ty Cobb and the failure of a deal to turn out as the Tiger leader had reason to expect it, blew what was generally regarded as a good chance for Detroit to win the pennant or be way out there.
Howard Ebbets wasn't doing much with the Tigers. Cobb didn't like him, and the Detroit fans figured that the club could get along without him.
Cobb made then what looked like a slick move when he traded Ebbets and Hollings to the Boston Red Sox for Del Pratt and Rip Collins.
In return for what was regarded as excess baggage, Cobb got a good second baseman, whom he expected to fill a big hole and make the Tiger infield. And in Rip Collins he acquired a pitcher of ability, who looked to be just about ready to figure that Cobb had secured all the best of the deal, so the Boston fans thought that they had received the worst of it, and Harry Frazee was censured for the last over-act in breaking up a great ball club just to fatten his pocketbook.
It wasn't long until the whole color changed. Pratt fell down at second base and Collins was a terrible "bust" as a pitcher. The Tigers collapsed and fell out of the running.
In the other hand, Ebbets pulled a sensational routine of form with the Red Sox and turned into one of the best pitchers of the season.
Then there was the case of the Cleveland Indians, who turned "Stuffy" Mottola loose because he was thought not worth the big salary called for in his contract. Speaker had a sensational routine of form with the Red Sox and turned into one of the best pitchers of the season.

New Packing Plant In Operation

Portsmouth's new wholesale meat packing house, The Portsmouth Provision Co., threw open its doors for business, yesterday, and began operations by butchering veals and hams. The new company has headquarters in a building formerly used by the old Chemical Works, back of Hempstead Hospital, where complete equipment has been installed, and preparations made to do a packing and meat business which will be a credit to the enterprise of the Peckless City.
The new concern started operations yesterday with 14 employees, under the direction of A. J. Slattery and R. R. Spangler. Two meat experts, W. H. Luman, formerly head butcher for the David Davies Co. at Columbus, O., and J. C. Snyder, formerly of Columbus, Ind., and Omaha, Neb., were in charge of the principal departments of the plant. Luman has charge of the butchering and Snyder, an expert sausage maker, is in charge of that department.
All goods will be put on the market in package form, the new concern announces, bearing the "Spring Lane" label, and will be of high quality.
A sales force is at work, Albert Goddard, formerly of Tucson, Ariz., being the city representative, and Bruce Sims, one of the officers of the company, also acting as salesman.
The company's buying market will be local, and this rule will be observed strictly, Mr. Slattery said last night. "We have 20 head of cattle due Wednesday morning when the first butchering in this line will be done," Mr. Slattery said, and we propose to patronize the local markets.
Plans are now under way for the arrangement of an "open house" door when the people of the community will be shown through the new plant.

A few years ago J. M. Stockham became interested in establishing a branch plant of the Armour Company in Portsmouth, but at that time the Armour people could not be interested. A. J. Slattery, who was with the Armour company, saw the possibility of such a plant here, however, and came to Mr. Stockham to help him. There was some talk, plans were made, and the company was finally organized last September, with J. M. Stockham president, Russell Stockham secretary and treasurer; A. J. Slattery, vice president, and R. Islanuel and Bruce Sims, stockholders. They started business last October 1st at the Stockham Ice Plant jobbing of meats, handling the Libby's line and specialties. They are the local representatives of the Paper and Bag Mills, of Cincinnati, and of the Blue Valley Butter Company of Columbus. Work was begun on the new building about April 16. They will manufacture everything in the sausage line, hams, bacon and lards. The offices of the company will continue to be located at the Stockham Ice Company, at 1111 Chillicothe.

Sallie Ann Says

I saw some beautiful new velvet hats at The Fashion this morning. They were in a new shade of Almond green in odd and fantastic shapes and are trimmed in narrow taffeta ribbon frayed and fringed and worked into rosettes. Mr. Atlas has them in the window now so if you're passing take a look at them.

I saw a little college girl being out-fitted this morning. First she selected a striking point-twill, severely tailored suit. Then a cloth frock in coat style. It flared at the bottom and had cunning tight sleeves with flared cuffs. Then she bought one of the new brushed wool Chappie jackets piped in navy for campus wear. Then a stunning striped sports coat with large ruffled collar. And finally a rich chiffon velvet frock made in girlish tight fitting Basque style. She certainly will be well equipped for all college activities.

New arrivals in potticoats have certainly made this stock pretentious. There are clinging silk jerseys, soft milans, pussy-willows and Belding satins in every wanted shade including even purple, Hard- ing, African brown and the new Bevan.

More Thursday.

held a Trachoma Clinic here last week. Dr. McMullen, United States health surgeon, and several nurses, conducted the clinic.

Our league has sent a number of patients to Pikeville Trachoma Hospital and they are loud in their praise of the treatment received there and the results obtained.

I certainly advise all suffering with that terrible eye disease—Trachoma—to go to this hospital for treatment, and it is free for all Trachoma sufferers.

Mrs. Florence H. Leslie, Chairman Greenup Civic League.

DEAR DOLLY—I have an abundance of long dark brown hair, which is very thick, but also very straight. Now, Dolly, can you please tell me an inexpensive way to make my hair natural curly?

—ETHEL

You can make straight hair naturally curly, but you can curl it either with an electric curling iron or electric curlers. Either way is inexpensive.

DEAR DOLLY—I am a young girl of 16 and have been going with a man of 31 for the past month. We could get along just fine if we were not so much alike. He is as contrary as they make 'em and so am I. He is very good looking and would pass for nineteen or twenty, instead of thirty-one. Dolly, tell me if I should keep on going with him, since he is so much older than I. Dolly, how can I conquer my contrariness. I get so disgusted with myself sometimes. Dolly, should a girl suggest the time for a man to go home, or is it proper for her to mention it first, and what is the proper time to go?

—BLUE EYES

A girl of 16 is young to be keeping company with a man of 31, and your parents should see that you go around with girls and boys your own age. If you insist on going with him, you should go with him at all. You should go with him at all. You should go with him at all.

DEAR DOLLY—Please tell me how to can string beans.

—THANK YOU

Canning string beans: String beans, break into small pieces and wash thoroughly. Cook until about half done, then can. Fill jars full of the beans and juice, leaving just room enough for a tablespoon of vinegar, then seal immediately. They may also be canned by the cold pack method, but this takes several hours longer. If you want to try them proceed like this: Carefully string the beans, break into short lengths and cook for 10 minutes. Drain the water off, pack the beans in jars and add enough boiling salted water to fill full. Place in boiler and steam for three hours.

DEAR DOLLY—I have been going with a boy of 17 and he says he thinks a whole lot of me. I am 18, and I hate that he goes with other girls when he is not with me and it almost breaks my heart. Dolly, please give me your best advice. Dolly, he comes to see me three times a week. Is that often enough or too often?

—SWEET SIXTEEN

If you let a little child like that break your heart it will be shattered to pieces ere long. If you have the boy three times a week, I think you should be satisfied to let some one else have him the other four. Personally I think three times a week is three times too often for a girl of your age to have company. You can't get married for five years yet, so why start out so early.

DEAR DOLLY—I have been in poor health for some time and I have been advised by a friend to go to Saratoga Springs, N. Y. I have been to French Lick and Hot Springs, but neither place did me very much good. Do you know anything about the Saratoga waters?

—SENILE INVALID

Whether or not you should go there, depends on what kind of an ailment you have. The medical use of Saratoga waters is indicated in gastro-intestinal disorders, gout, rheumatism, arthritis, anemia and obesity. Some are admirably adapted for use in certain kidney disorders, in neurasthenia, in general debility, in certain nervous diseases, and in the elimination of various poisons from the body. The alkaline-saline waters are excellent aids to digestion. Some of the waters there are so strongly mineralized that they may be used for other purposes than as natural remedies. The springs are divided into four principal classes—the sulfate, sulfate or carbonate waters, the alkali-sulfate or digestive waters, the Chalybeate or iron waters. There are four parks at the springs and the waters may be had from fountains in these parks, but for the convenience of visitors the more important waters are served in bottles at drink halls.

They may also be purchased in bottles or cases and shipped to any part of the country. The Saratoga plateau is a beautiful place bordering on the foothills of the Adirondack Mountains in the state of New York. Approximately 550 acres of land are embraced in the reservation, and upon this property are 122 natural springs and wells, including practically every naturally mineralized, carbonated water in the Saratoga region. There are several large bath houses there and also a large outside swimming pool. And, speaking of "Main street," there is not a main street in the country equal to the main street that runs through the city of Saratoga Springs. It is thronged with millionaires from New York and other Eastern cities, and also with tourists and health seekers from all parts of the country and Europe. One side of the street is lined with fashionable hotels and the other side with theaters, stores and places of amusement. The finest race track in the country is located there and races are held during the whole month of August, so if you are thinking of going there I would advise you to go this month. I think Saratoga Springs one of the finest places I ever visited. I am sure you will not be disappointed if you decide to spend your vacation there.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you're minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but it's the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

KILLS PESKY BED BUGS

Just think, a box of P. D. Q. (Pest Destroyer) kills a million bed bugs, roaches, fleas, lice, and all other pests. It is a powerful disinfectant, kills germs, and does not injure the clothing. # Proper Teaching Of History And Reading Discussed At The Teachers' Institute

"The Problem Method in Teaching History" was the subject of the lecture by Professor Freeman, this morning at the Scioto County Teachers' Institute being held this week in New Boston.

"History trains the child in reasoning with the human equation," he said. "The proper method of teaching history will show the child the proper attitude with regard to the past and the present."

"The child cannot understand the present situation unless he has some knowledge of the past. He must know of the past that has been the foundation for all that is present in the present, the past experiences and the past struggles that have culminated in the present arrangement."

"It is through the problem method that the child can understand that through the growing intelligence of man he has reached his present position; that, through his habitual modes of living and through his ideals he has learned how to react to his environment."

"The problem method is different from the project method," Professor Freeman pointed out. "The latter dramatizes. The former questions and brings into play the importance of probability and the human element."

"The ideal text book of history has not been written," he lamented. "Most of the books from which we endeavor to teach our pupils are mere manuals of dry facts and uninteresting narrative. If I had my way the texts would be large with many pictures and would include the human touches that the child finds in real life; those touches that belong in the text to make the child realize that history is but the recounting of life as past previous time."

"The big thing in the teaching of history, and the thing that is most admirably effected by the problem method, is the consideration of the element of human life and human action."

Mr. Freeman illustrated the working of the problem method by using the lesson of transportation, starting at the beginning of our country including the latest invention in the line of railroads and trolleys.

Miss Elliott, who was to have lectured on "Eliminating Speech Errors and Executing the Reading Lesson," said, "It is successful, generally. There can be no failure when the Aldine manual is followed."

"In planning the reading lesson there are eight steps," she continued. "First is the teacher's reading of the lesson. Then she decides what type of material is found in the lesson; whether for silent reading, oral reading, or dramatization."

"Third, comes the teacher's aim, which should be well defined. There are many things the teacher may hope to gain in the lesson, but there should be one point that she must set out definitely to gain. That aim is usually either speed in silent reading or fluency in oral reading."

"Then follows the organization of questions to ask the children. These questions may be of two types, either of the thought type, where the child can in his own mind find the answer, or of the judgment kind, where the child must reach his own conclusion and form his own opinion."

"Fifth is the organization of the relationship between the words, the phrases, and the whole."

"After this is accomplished the teacher should look for the difficulties, both mechanical and intellectual, and endeavor to clear them in the mind of the child."

"The eighth step is in seeing the child's aim and in showing it the motive of the lesson."

"After this the teacher has abolished the difficulties that seem existent and has completed the steps in the teaching, she should ask herself this question—'Did I accomplish my aim?'"

Miss Elliott illustrated the steps of planning, explaining the value of each.

At the afternoon session she discussed "Enriching the Vocabulary," J. Howard Winters, of the State Department of Education, also adressed the institute.

"Poetry and Life in the Schoolroom" was the subject of yesterday afternoon's lecture by Prof. Freeman at the regular session of the Scioto County Teachers' Institute.

"Literature is nothing but a transcript of life," he said. "Into its pages the author writes life. He has his choice of the beautiful and the unbecoming in life. Around the select things of life he casts a glamour of romance."

"It is the imaginative literature that is most beautiful. Therefore poetry is the most lovely form of literature. Realistic literature of the type of the 'Spoon River Anthology' is not the sort of stuff with which to fill the minds of the young people. Give them verse that depicts the finest part of life."

"Give to the children the 'lovely things' so that they may see the vision of the author. We must understand that the primary things of life are the good things. Through the best of poetry we can learn the good things—love of home, love of country, the value of service to the common weal, the enlargement of our vision, and the development of the mind."

"Poetry is different from prose because of its meter and its cadence. Poetry is no more than humorous, noble, beautiful, or sublime thought in metrical language. Its chief aim is to give beauty and to nurture the imagination of the reader."

Poe, Mr. Freeman quoted as one of the loveliest of poets. Tennyson has called him "the most original man of letters" and "the first American critic of any consequence."

"His poetry is inimitable and unsurpassed. His poems are pleasing to the ear, as well as to the mind. Throughout all Poe's works one cannot find a single indelicate phrase or thought. And his expression is as lovely as his thought."

Mr. Freeman then took Poe's "Raven," explaining the meaning of that misunderstood poem, showing the fallacy of the current belief that Poe was an atheist and that he was intoxicated when he wrote the poem.

In closing his talk, which was replete with admiration for American poets and their work, Mr. Freeman told the true mission of poetry in the school room—to expand the hearts, souls, and minds of the children and to make for them a life instead of showing them the means of securing a living."

The afternoon session opened with a demonstration by Miss Davidson showing the method of teaching the rote song.

Miss Elliott conducted a model grammar class after the recess. She illustrated the ways of teaching the children distinct pronunciation and enunciation and correct expression by playing games and by telling stories.

"Make the children act naturally as they do when they play out of doors, and you have performed a difficult task, but one which will give you a great deal of power over their development," she said.

"I had rather be a children's story teller than a king's counselor or a general's favorite," she remarked in quoting one of the most popular of women story tellers and mothers.

Teachers should realize the value of the story in teaching English and grammar, she pointed out, explaining the different appeals which may be made to children through the fairy and folk tale.

Columbus Men Arrested For Alleged Attack On Girls

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22.—Two Columbus men are held in county jail here following an alleged attack on two Columbus girls last night near Darbyville.

T. W. Timmons, 25, who gave his address as 1092 3rd avenue, is charged with assault by Miss Mary Wagner, 19, 1034 Jaeger street, while T. A. Betts, 24, 753 Kelton avenue, is charged with attempted assault by Miss Pearl Pater, 18, 499 Thurman street.

The two girls, both employed as clerks for the G. E. Smith Shoe Co., told the police here they were approached by the men as they left a confectory at the South and High streets.

They accepted an offer of an automobile ride, they said. Miss Pater said she used a wrench to defend herself, finally breaking away and running to Circleville, where she fell in a faint. She was revived, a posse of men quickly formed, and the two men, armed with shotguns, arrested the two men. They will be given a hearing today.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

End Bromley, daughter of Chard Bromley, is visiting at the home of Captain John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo. Bromley is now manager of the Banting-Hank rubber estate. He, issues invitations to a house warming when he opens his new quarters. Peter Pennington, in love with Hewitt's sister, Monien Viney, is detailed by the government to apprehend Chai-Hung, Chinese bandit. Josephine Gwynne, tells Pennington that Bromley has a daughter. NO WGO ON WITH THE STORY. Chard Bromley was in his element.

prejudiced. She had started with a vaguely conceived dislike for End, and it was not altogether unnatural for her to extend this animosity toward her father. But, quite apart from this, there was something about Chard Bromley that repelled her. He seemed to be acting a part, to be assuming a cultured accent rather than talking naturally, and eyeing him furtively, she noticed that he glanced at frequent intervals at his watch.

His tall figure moved everywhere. He was undeniably handsome and the dark hair going gray at the sides lent an air of distinction. His ordinarily pale cheeks were slightly flushed and, as the meal wore on, his flood of conversation increased in volume until every eye of the room was fixed upon him. It seemed to Monien, who lost nothing that he had caught, something of the sparkle of the change he had unearthed; but his glass remained as she had first seen it—and when he joined in a toast his lips touched the surface of the fluid and that was all. It is possible that Mrs. Viney was Suddenly a woman screamed. It was that moment Mrs. Viney saw that Chard Bromley held Chard Bromley covered with a businesslike looking automatic.

"Don't move, Mr. Sommes!" he said coldly. "Captain Hewitt, do you mind seeing that Miss Mayne doesn't clear?"

The Commissioner started to his feet, his forehead wrinkled.

"I mean the woman who calls herself End Bromley. Sommes, now we're all here, perhaps you'll be good enough to tell us why Chai-Hung of your passage to Borneo—what you kidnapped him in a cellar in the Chinese quarter at Singapore!—and what you and your confederate hope to gain by all this!" He concluded with an eloquent sweep of his free hand.

Women looked from one to the other with startled eyes, men sprang from their seats and groped for their hip-pockets.

"What's all this mean, Gwynne?" demanded Hewitt.

The younger man beckoned to his companion.

"This is the real Chard Bromley," he gasped.

"But," gasped Dawson. The sentence was never concluded, for, with surprising suddenness, every light went out. At the same time a distant muffled explosion rent the outer air.

There followed a scene of indescribable confusion, of pandemonium more which Gwynne's voice could be heard shouting for somebody to stop Sommes.

Hewitt gathered his scattered wits. "Keep quite still, everybody!" he ordered. "Dawson, find that switch."

After an appreciable interval the light came on, revealing a chaotic mingling of overturned tables and scattered or broken crockery. There was no sign of End or Sommes or the native waiters in the white coats. The man who had been nearest the actor had vanished, too. He reappeared almost immediately, wild-eyed and breathless.

"It's the Yellow Seven," he panted excitedly. "They've fired the forest. That swine must have known all about it; he's been felling trees for weeks. He's been felling trees surrounded by a circle of flame. It'll be upon us before we know where we are!"

The real Chard Bromley came forward.

"The assistants had better get their men out at once," he said, "and begin clearing a line round the outer boundary of the estate. As far as I've been able to gather, the outer sections have been more recently planted. There's still a sporting chance, if they all pull together, of saving the bulk of the rubber. Which is Mr. Hewitt's."

A man standing close behind Hewitt held up his arm.

"Is there a hint to get the ladies away in?"

"There was a motor-boat, sir; but I'm afraid this Sommes fellow will have taken it."

"Wait! Wait! Wait! after him as quickly as you can. Turn out the coonies—you there—and get busy. He rapped out the words like a man accustomed to command.

into the light of the conflagration where white men stripped to the waist toiled like fiends—and swart Chinamen stood sullenly resting on their implements, their heads bowed in placid dignity an immense Oriental with white tunic and leggings, knotted behind his neck. At sight of him the coolies fell prone and the Britishers remained momentarily motionless, staring before them in incredulous amazement.

"My God!" said Hewitt. "Chai-Hung!"

One single phrase, guttural and penetrating, escaped the pursed lips of the arch-landlord:

"Obey your white masters."

He paused only to watch the electrical effect of his utterance, then strode back through the trees. Hewitt, gazing after him in bewilderment, saw Gwynne slip after him, revolver in hand.

"I don't know what his game is," he shouted back over his shoulder. "But he's not getting away with it like that!"

The Commissioner dropped his axe and ran for all he was worth.

He was ten yards from Gwynne when Chai-Hung pitched forward on his face. Hewitt was aware of an enormous weight lifted from his mind. He was glad somehow that he hadn't done it; but Chai-Hung dead!—it would mean the beginning of a new era.

Gwynne was on his knee. He turned suddenly.

"It's not Chai-Hung, it's—"

Hewitt, who was all going mad? The Commissioner, a choking sensation in his throat, realized that Sommes had played his last part.

"The Wisdom of Kabat-Pilai," the next episode of this gripping series, will start in our next issue.

Here Are Games Giants

And Reds Have To Play

There does not seem to be much claim that the Reds have the best of the Giants in respect to games left on their schedules with the weaker teams in the race down the home stretch. The only advantage which the Cincinnati crew may appear to have, if it can be regarded as such, is the fact that a majority of their remaining 39 games, will be decided at Redland field while the Giants will be in the land of the enemy and practically wind up their season's play on foreign fields.

Of the 36 games still on the New York schedule 10 are with the lowly Phillies and the Braves while the Reds have but a dozen contests with these same clubs to be decided.

New York's remaining contests are as follows: 2 with Cincinnati; 3 with Pittsburgh; 4 with Chicago; 5 with Brooklyn; 6 with St. Louis; 3 with Philadelphia and 7 with Boston—total 36.

Cincinnati's unplayed games—2 with New York; 8 with Pittsburgh; 4 with Chicago; 6 with Brooklyn; 7 with St. Louis; 4 with Philadelphia and 8 with Boston—total 39.

Moran Men Within 27 Points Of Giants

The Phillies fell again before the battling Reds in Quakertown yesterday while the Pirates were slipping another jolting to the fading Giants with the result that the Cincinnati tribe gained a full game on the league leaders and are but 27 points or three and a half games south of the New York crew today. The Pirates are stopping along at a lively clip and are only 14 points in the rear of the Queen City gang.

The Moran men open a three-game series in Brooklyn Thursday, and then move on to Boston to wind up their last stand of the season in the East.

The Giants have 36 games on their schedule to play and Cincinnati has 39.

Bond Forfeited

Ben Collins, arrested at Sciotoville for intoxication, failed to appear in Municipal court yesterday for trial and his bond was declared forfeited and J. L. Blair was taxed the costs for parking his automobile in an alley west of Norfolk street.
